About TATIANA

Tatiana Quaife is a purpose-driven speaker, executive, coach and thought-leader using her authentic voice and experiences to inspire and empower other Corporate America professionals to unlock and unleash their true potential, and authentic magic, from within.

With fifteen years of leadership experience as a Latina executive at Airbnb, The Walt Disney Company and Procter & Gamble, Tatiana experienced firsthand the pressure and challenges many professionals face during their journeys to success.

Feeling burned out, stressed and overwhelmed by trying to “fit in,” Tatiana knew there had to be a new and better way of achieving professional success.

Tatiana went on a profound inner journey to truly understand the barriers holding her back from reaching her truest potential. During this process, Tatiana learned to transform her mindset so she could break through from the inside out and unleash her authentic magic within.

Now, Tatiana is helping individuals, leaders and organizations embrace “inner work” as a new way of igniting meaning, breakthrough growth and results at work—all so that we can together create a ripple effect across Corporate America.

Inner Work

Unlocking Potential From Within

The Inner Work strategy presented in this keynote introduces a new way of igniting meaning, transformational growth and peak performance through. It will inspire and empower the audience to self-assess and transform the key inner barriers holding them back, like doubts, fears and limiting beliefs, so they can unlock and unleash their true potential and magic from within and achieve breakthrough growth.

This program is perfect for leaders and teams:

- Embarking upon significant change, growth or disruption.
- Constantly challenged and stressed by having to do and achieve more with less.
- Seeking to increase engagement, motivation and performance by unlocking each individual's potential.

The audience will leave with:

- An inspired and empowered understanding that unlocking potential growth is an inner work that begins within us.
- Steps to cultivate a new way of being, working and leading, allowing individuals and teams to unleash their potential and magic from within.
- The education, energy and motivation needed to ignite meaning, breakthrough growth and results at work.

Super Mindset

Unleashing the Power Mindset to Grow Through Change

If there is one thing we have learned recently, it is that change is the new normal. Unprecedented times have forced massive changes on businesses, teams and individuals. And the truth is, change can motivate or paralyze a company and its employees. How leaders spearhead change matters, but how employees live it matters just as much. This keynote focuses on how employees can develop a Super Mindset and build the inner resilience needed to thrive and grow, not just survive, through change.

This program is perfect for leaders and teams:

- Going through significant industry, market, or business disruption while looking to deliver profitability and business growth.
- Seeking to embody and inspire the Super Mindset needed to overcome obstacles and fears and deliver breakthrough performance growth.
- Dealing with the stress and frustration brought on by changes to the way they work.

The audience will leave with:

- An inspired perspective that managing and going through change can be positive, enjoyable and relies upon each employees' ability to unlock breakthrough growth.
- Proven, science-backed steps to developing a Super Mindset and cultivating inner resilience.
- The education, energy and motivation to take the first steps in developing the Inner Resilience needed to thrive during crucial times of change.

Breaking Through the Mold

Unleashing Your Authentic Magic Within

There has been something big missing from DEI efforts. For too long, women and people of color have learned and believed that they couldn't be their true selves if they wanted to succeed in Corporate America. They have been taught to wear masks, silence part of themselves, and change themselves to fit into preconceived molds of success. This keynote will empower companies to create a culture of true inclusion and belonging by helping professionals go within to unlearn to silence parts of themselves or become someone else to fit in and relearn to embrace the power of unleashing their magic within so they can bring their full authentic selves, ideas and contributions to work.

This program is perfect for leaders and teams:

- Committed to creating a culture of true inclusion and belonging.
- Ready to take bold actions towards change.
- Seeking to invest in the development and growth of the women, people of color and allies in their organizations.
- DEI, ERGs and Human Resources leaders responsible for leading diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives.

The audience will leave with:

- A new perspective on the inner journey women and people of color need to go through to relearn what it means to be successful while bringing their authentic selves to work.
- A practical framework that acknowledges, transforms and lets go of the limiting beliefs holding people back from success.
- An instantly applicable action plan that enables teams and leaders to create a culture of authentic inclusion and belonging.

The Inner Work of Authentic Leadership

Leading and Igniting Breakthrough Performance from the Inside Out

With over twelve years of leadership and executive experience in Corporate America, Tatiana has learned what it takes to inspire individuals and teams to unleash their magic within and ignite breakthrough growth. Participants will learn a powerful new way of leading and working that reframes leadership as an inner experience and helps leaders ignite meaning and unlock the true potential for their teams.

This program is perfect for leaders and teams:

- Looking to unlock human potential and ignite breakthrough performance from their teams, even when facing change or difficult times of transition.
- Committed to creating a work culture and space where true inclusion, belonging and authenticity are not only possible but rewarded.
- Seeking to lead by example while evolving the traditional leadership mold in Corporate America.

The audience will leave with:

- Steps to redefine leadership as an inner experience so people can lead with heart, as their true whole selves, and connect on a much deeper level with their teams.
- A new understanding of what it means to be an effective leader in today's world and how authentic, wholehearted leadership starts inside.
- The knowledge needed to inspire and empower leaders to lead with authenticity and unlock employee growth.
